

How do we use cookies?

Cookies are very small text files that are stored on your computer when you visit some websites. We use cookies to help identify your computer so we can tailor your user experience, track your interest and remember where you leave our website. Your computer will remember information on the visited pages and will work faster next time you visit us.

You can disable any cookies already stored on your computer, but these may stop our website from functioning properly.

The following are not strictly necessary, but are required to provide you with the best user experience and also to tell us which pages you find most interesting (anonymously).

Functional cookies

This website will:

Track the pages you visit via Google Analytics

Targeting cookies

This website will:

Allow you to share pages with social networks such as Facebook and Instagram

This website will not share any personal information with third parties.

We will not share your personal information with third parties.

Intellectual property rights

The contents of this site, including trade marks, logos, drawings, data, product or company names, texts, images, etc. are protected by intellectual property rights and belong to Durafest or entitled third parties.

Liability limitation

The information on the website is general in nature. It is not adapted to personal or specific circumstances and can therefore not be regarded as personal, professional or judicial advice for the user. Durafest does everything in its power to ensure that the information made available is complete, correct, accurate and updated. However, despite these efforts inaccuracies may occur when providing information. If the information provided contains inaccuracies or if specific information on or via the site is unavailable, Durafest shall make the greatest effort to ensure that this is rectified as soon as possible. Durafest cannot be held responsible for direct or indirect damage caused by the use of the information on this site. The site manager should be contacted if the user has noticed any inaccuracies in the information provided by the site. The contents of the site (including links) may be adjusted, changed or extended at any time without any announcement or advance notice. Durafest gives no guarantees for the smooth operation of the website and cannot be held responsible in any way for the poor operation or temporary unavailability of the website or for any type of damage, direct or indirect, which may occur due to the access to or use of the website. Durafest can in no case be held liable, directly or indirectly, specifically or otherwise, vis-à-vis anyone for any damage attributable to the use of this site or any other one, in particular as the result of links or hyperlinks including, but not limited to, any loss, work interruption, damage of the user's programs or other data on the computer system, hardware, software or otherwise. The website may contain hyperlinks to websites or pages of third parties or refer to these indirectly. The placing of links on these websites or pages shall not imply in any way the implicit approval of the contents thereof. Durafest expressly declares that it has no authority over the contents or over other features of these websites and can in no case be held responsible for the contents or features thereof or for any other type of damage resulting from their use.

Applicable legislation and competent courts

This site is governed by Belgian law. Only the courts of the district of Ghent are competent to settle any disputes.

Privacy policy

Durafest believes that your privacy is important. While most of the information on this site is available without having to ask the user for personal information, the user may be asked for some personal details. This information will only be used to ensure a better service. (e.g. for our customer database, to keep users informed of our activities, etc.). The user may, free of charge and on request, always prevent the use of his personal details for the purposes of direct marketing. In this regard, the user should contact Durafest BV, Kwintijnpoort 106 - BE 9200 Dendermonde or via koen@durafest.be. Your personal details will never be transferred to any third parties (if this should occur, you will be informed). In accordance with the law on the processing of personal data of 8 December 1992, the user has the legal right to examine and possibly correct any of his/her personal details. Subject to proof of identity (copy of the user's identity card), you can via a written, dated and signed request to Durafest BV, Kwintijnpoort 106 - BE 9200 Dendermonde or via koen@durafest.be, receive free of charge a written statement of the user's personal details. If necessary, you may also ask for any incorrect, incomplete or irrelevant data to be adjusted or to be forgotten. Durafest can collect non-personal anonymous or aggregate data such as browser type, IP address or operating system in use or the domain name of the website that led you to and from our website, ensuring optimum effectiveness of our website for all users.